Avail yourself of business opportunities

Being present in Russia is an important factor in doing business successfully in the long term. Medium and small-sized companies, in particular, need support - in issues from finding a suitable office to dealing with the bureaucracy. In the German Centre Moscow, you can find the perfect infrastructure for your market entry: offices, services and networks. The in-house Business Centre supports you in your daily business activities, and will also organise events for you. The German management provides practical advice on entering the Russian market and establishes contacts to important service providers, authorities and associations. The German Centre Moscow supports you as you start up and expand your business so that you may quickly start doing business in the Russian market while keeping risks under control.

Trading partner Russia

The high interest in the Russian market is well demonstrated by the impressive number of German companies already present in Russia. Most of the 4,600 companies are small and medium-sized businesses. Two-thirds alone are based in Moscow. High-quality consumer and industrial goods "Made in Germany" are highly appreciated and in demand. One-fourth of all machines imported come from Germany. Benefit from the opportunities offered by the modernisation of the public sector and the pent-up demand in the private sector. Discover the opportunities provided by the biggest country in the world.

The German Centre Moscow is the newest location in the worldwide network of the German Centres. The German Centres unite the strengths of German business under one roof. They are supported by umbrella organisations of German business as well as federal and state ministries.

Your launch pad for doing business successfully in Russia

An ailing infrastructure, a lot of red tape and non-transparent general conditions – to mention but a few hurdles that have to be taken when it comes to starting your business in Russia. And then there are also quite practical questions. How do I find a company or draw up contracts? How and where can I find an office location offering good transport links? Who can help with recruiting suitable staff? How can products be marketed? Which networks exist in a country whose language alone is one of the most difficult ones worldwide? At the least, we can help you with the search for an appropriate location. The German Centre Moscow is located in the Moscow technopark “Nogatino i-Land” along Prospekt Andropova directly on the Third Transport Ring Road and only 20 minutes from the Kremlin.

The metro stations Avtozavodskaya and Kolomenskaya are near by. A station directly at the technopark is planned.

Practical support when entering the market

With its unique infrastructure, the interior of the new German Centre Moscow fulfils the requirements of German small and medium-sized companies venturing into a new market. Because small offices in Moscow are scarce, we offer a mixture of offices and storerooms from 33 sqm to 1,000 sqm as well as single desk space. Thus, especially newcomers may start out with small office units to save costs and can then expand step by step. In addition, seminar rooms and exhibition space that can be booked on demand will be available. The Business Centre provides support in your daily business and for the technical equipment. The German management advises on practical issues concerning market entry and establishes contacts to legal, tax, accounting, human resource and logistics service providers.

By organising business and social events, we create a forum for exchanging information and experiences, allowing you to benefit from networks. Our aim is to closely interlink the German and Russian economies so that companies may quickly and smoothly gain a foothold in the Russian market.

Reserve your ideal office and talk to us about your opportunities in the German Centre Moscow.
